A must for all dog lovers. Harry Pearson's wry humour keeps you turning the pages until all too soon you come to the end.

A decade and one dog after penning the bestselling Racing Pigs And Giant Marrows, and inspired by the purchase of his new hound, a petit basset-griffon Vendéen called Little Man, Harry Pearson returns to the world of stalking, ferreting and beating with this ramble through the countryside. Harry Pearson was born into a dog-loving family and grew up with a variety of spaniels, terriers, collies and mongrels. He currently spends several hours every day running along behind a basset-griffon pretending he really intended to go that way himself. Within these pages will be found anecdotes culled from forty-five years of living with dogs, wise observations on canine and human behaviour, historical tales of famous dogs, learned speculations on nature and descriptions of life in the real English countryside - a place where there are otters in the river, glue-sniffers in the woods and fisticuffs over fishing rights.

Funnier than Bill Bryson? INDEPENDENT Pearson aims to unearth the exotic in very ordinary places and to make his readers laugh? MAIL ON SUNDAY About the Author Harry Pearson is a writer and journalist who regularly contributes to the Guardian, When Saturday Comes and GQ.
