1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Great game for lawyers By Kevin Zurrin I read the reviews and was intrigued by the fact that lawyers loved the game. I can see how a group of them could spend hours discussing each case, but if you're a layman then you don't have much to discuss. I highly recommend you get it for your lawyer friends. Law School in a Box 2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Something to Aspire to By Terry K. Gong It is OK. Great gag gift and something to aspire to. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Great gift By Voracious Reader My son got a kick out of this! The little booklet that comes with it is very readable, and surprisingly educational!

“This tongue-in-cheek crash course includes a mini-textbook, 10 ‘Heroes of the Courtroom’ trading cards, 10 ‘You Be the Judge’ cards, a mini bar exam, and a faux diploma. Best of all, there’s no tuition!”—Catholic Digest About the Author John Cascarano and Jacquelyn Oña Cascarano met in the spring semester, just outside the University of Michigan Law School reading room, where they probably should have been studying. Instead of cases, they found love. (Which is much better, in their unanimous professional legal opinion.) The couple, who got hitched soon after graduation, currently reside in Philadelphia, where they enjoy taking long walks around Rittenhouse Square with their ever-pooping wheaten terrier, Hamburger "Hammy" Cascarano.
